(25marks)

Most parents think that the child is too young to understand that they are quarrelling as he/she is too young to comprehend the reason for the discord. What most parents are not aware of is that, innocent children are definitely aware of the fighting between the parents and quite often believe that parents are fighting because of them.

Each child is a unique human being with a complex set of emotions and sensibilities. Every child's reaction is individualistic too. There is no set or definite pattern as to how a child will react to the warring parents. Undoubtedly, whatever the reaction might be, the child would be hurt by the disagreement between the parents.

Some children might just withdraw and become total introverts, others might show maturity much beyond their years. There might be a third reaction altogether, making some children revolt and become unmanageable. They end up being rude and cruel to other children around them, turning into bullies. They don't follow any set rules of society. Research done in the field of child psychology has proved that the children who see the violent interaction between their parents seem to be surrounded by troubles all their lives. They are through all their growing years constantly living with fear that if their parents separated, from their siblings, or have only one parent around.

Similarly, in cases when a divorce takes place and where one parent gets remarried, the child believes that the union might break as well. He/she does not let himself/herself get too close to the step parent in such cases. It is true that fighting between spouses is essentially a physical, mental and emotional torture for the child. It might physically affect the health and growth of the child as well. Even a normal child could start stammering, or his/her development might be hampered.

In their innocence, the children might spill the details of the parents constant fighting among the relatives and friends, thereby creating embarrassment for the parents. If they feel they are not getting due care and affection from both parents, they might turn to strangers for it. They often become vulnerable to the negative sections of society who might abuse their trust. Imagine a situation where a child says to a stranger or a relative, “you love me so much but my own mother does not love me at all.”

When parents fight constantly, the child feels a physical, mental, emotional and social separation and suffers. His/her understanding of “marriage” gets distorted and when this child reaches adulthood, the fear of marriage sets deep in his psyche, marriage to him/her becomes not a balanced equation of love and trust, but something that would bring fights and discord in their lives. It is every parent’s moral duty to take full responsibility for their child’s physical and mental development.

Questions

- a) Suggest an appropriate title for the passage. (2 marks)
- b) What major misconceptions do parents have about their children? (3 marks)
- d) In not more than 100 words, summarize the effect of fighting between parents on their children. (5 marks)
- e) Explain the meanings of the following words and phrases as used in the passage using your own words wherever possible. (10 marks)
- i) Individualistic
 - ii) Definite pattern
 - iii) Introverts
 - iv) Essentially
 - v) Spill
